The focus of the specialisation is the study of societies and cultures in terms of social and cultural encounters, intercultural communication, nation-building, international politics and globalization, governance and sustainable development. Lectures and seminars introduce Arctic communities and cultures as well as relevant theories. The theories are applied in the analysis of a number of studies from different parts of the Arctic, with more emphasis, however, on Greenland.

General examination provisions

Examinations will be conducted in English. This applies to both written and oral examinations.

Projects

Projects may be prepared in groups. Project examinations will take the following form:

An oral examination on the basis of the written project, whether this is prepared individually or together with others. The project will be viewed as the joint responsibility of the group. Consequently, the project report is the basis for examination and assessment, and one combined grade will be awarded for the project report and the oral performance. At oral group examinations, the examination must be conducted in such a way that individual assessment of each individual student's performance is ensured.

The examination will take the form of a conversation between the student(s) and the examiners on the basis of the project report written by the student(s). Individual students may request to be informed of their grade without the presence of their group; however, this must be stated by the student at the beginning of the examination. If this is not done, students will be informed of their grades together.

Volume of written work

Where rules have been stipulated regarding the volume of written work, one page will correspond to 2400 typographical characters, including spaces. The stipulated number of pages only includes the actual body text of the report, as title page, preface, table of contents, bibliography, appendices, illustrations etc. will not be calculated. However, footnotes/endnotes must be included. The total page number must be stated on the title page.

Oral examinations

The stipulated time intervals for oral examinations will include voting and announcement of result(s).

Assessment of written assignments

In the assessment of all written assignments, the students' communicative performance, such as spelling skills and fluency, will be considered. The assessment of communicative performance will be based on orthographic correctness, academic writing standards and stylistic proficiency, and will be considered as a part of the final grade.

Annual full-time

The modules on which the individual examinations are based are rated as proportions of an annual full-time equivalent, this being calculated as the annual work of a full-time student. An annual full-time equivalent is 60 ECTS.

Registration for Master's thesis examination

Students who wish to register for the Master's thesis examination must have passed all previous examinations equivalent to 90 ECTS, including examinations of electives stipulated in these regulations.

Weighted average

In order for a student to graduate from the programme, each examination must be passed with a minimum grade of 02 or an assessment of 'Pass'. A weighted average will be calculated for the examinations assessed according to the 7-point scale, on the basis of the ECTS weight of each individual examination. The average is defined as the sum of individual grades, each multiplied by the ECTS of the examination in question, divided by the sum of the ECTS-points of the examinations included in the average.

Examinations assessed as pass/fail will not be included in this calculation. The average grade with one decimal digit will be stated on the final certificate.

Examination regulations

The examination provisions in these regulations and curriculum are subordinate to the Examination Policies and Procedures in force at any time at Aalborg University.
