TOURISM DESTINATION CHALLENGES

2023/2024

CONTENT, PROGRESS AND PEDAGOGY OF THE MODULE

This module is a problem-based research project on the theme of 'Tourism Destination Challenges'.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

KNOWLEDGE

- of theoretical, methodological and empirical approaches to tourism destination challenges
- of relevant research literature within one or more topics related to tourism destination challenges.

SKILLS

- in formulating a clearly defined problem statement within the chosen topic area that has academic and practical relevance
- in critically reviewing and reflecting on relevant research literature, sources of information, theories and concepts
- in using appropriate digital tools to locate, access, evaluate, utilize and cite diverse information sources
- in developing and applying an appropriate methodological approach to collect relevant empirical material
- in producing a critical and clear analysis of empirical material, using relevant theories and concepts
- in producing a clearly presented and coherent written project report.

COMPETENCES

- in designing and managing research projects
- in collaborating with others, giving and receiving constructive feedback and drawing on partners' knowledge and skills
- in communicating clearly in oral and written form
- in upholding high standards in relation to research ethics, data collection, storage and processing.

TYPE OF INSTRUCTION

Type of instruction is described in § 17 in the curriculum.

PROBLEM BASED PROJECTS AND RESEARCH METHODOLOGIES

2023/2024

CONTENT, PROGRESS AND PEDAGOGY OF THE MODULE

The module comprises a course in methodology and project writing in which students are introduced to methodological tools and skills in designing and undertaking a project in accordance with Aalborg University's problem based learning model.

KNOWLEDGE

- of problem based learning and project work
- of group work and collaboration
- of theories of science relevant to the study of tourism
- of methods and research designs relevant to the study of tourism, including digital methods and types of data.

SKILLS

- in problematizing and exemplifying tourism issues drawing on academic literature
- in reflexively discussing and communicating methodological choices and their implications, including ethical reflections and issues relating to data handling and storage
- in applying research methods.

COMPETENCES

- in designing and planning research projects in tourism
- in selecting and applying appropriate research methodologies
- in working collaboratively in groups
- in independently continuing individual competency development within methodology and project writing.

TYPE OF INSTRUCTION

Type of instruction is described in § 17 in the curriculum.

EXAM

EXAMS

Name of exam	Problem Based Projects and Research Methodologies
Type of exam	Active participation/continuous evaluation An internal examination in: Problem Based Projects and Research Methodologies (Problembaserede projekter og forskningsmetoder) The examination is completed by satisfactory and active participation in the module, i.e. 80% attendance, reading of course literature, contribution to discussion sessions of the module through oral presentations and active participation in discussions and satisfactory completion of tasks and assignments set by the course instructor(s).

	Re-examination: a 2-day take-home assignment paper set by the course instructor(s) on the basis of the course content. The assignment paper will be evaluated by an internal examiner. The assignment paper must be prepared individually and must not exceed 6 pages.

TOURISM DESTINATION ANALYSIS

CONTENT, PROGRESS AND PEDAGOGY OF THE MODULE

The module comprises a course in analysis of tourism destinations.

KNOWLEDGE

- of different theoretical perspectives and concepts in tourism studies
- of analytical and methodological tools and strategies for the analysis of tourism destinations and activities at different scales
- of sustainability issues related to tourism destinations.
- of opportunities and challenges of digitalization for tourism destinations.

SKILLS

- in critically discussing different theoretical approaches to the study of tourism destinations and activities
- in selecting relevant conceptual, methodological and analytical tools and types of data for the analysis of tourism destinations at different scales.

COMPETENCES

- in designing comprehensive analyses of tourism destinations and activities
- in discussing and reflecting on key debates within tourism, including sustainability issues
- in using theories and analytical tools from different disciplinary perspectives to conceptualise and analyse tourism destinations and activities at different scales.

TYPE OF INSTRUCTION

Type of instruction is described in § 17 in the curriculum.
